

Durrant Dance Holiday November 3rd - 5th 2023

It was so great to come away to the Durrant to enjoy the social and the activity of dance, amid the seasons rain!

Lynne and Geoff excelled as usual successfully creating a superb fun warm atmosphere for the whole weekend. a little taster of dancing at the tea dance and immediately into the swing of learning with an introduction the Bossinova 23 - that certainly triggered the brain cells into action.

We danced the evening away following a superb meal enjoying the celebration of Gold and Black. What a smart dapper crowd we looked!

Not to idle following breakfast we had a sequence workshop to learn the the Tajinaste Tango - we gather Tajinaste is a red wine - so red wine tango it colloquially became known! A quick breather and a little time to enjoy the hotel facilities before a cha cha workshop. A few extra figures to add to our repertoire and great fun to learn. Some challenged themselves to practice during the black tie evening dance, others of us were less brave Ha! Ha!
